HORSE & LIVESTOCK EVACUATION – SAN DIEGO SOUTH COUNTY 2023

San Diego South County, Imperial Beach and Tijuana River Valley areas

TRVEA will do our best to help find places for horses and livestock during a regional fire or flood emergency. We know some ranches and organizations who may be able to house and feed animals until the emergency ends. Owners may need to provide their own labor to care for animals; our volunteers may help. We will work with any area in the region that is evacuating.

To contact us for evacuation information in an emergency, CALL AT ANY TIME:

John Gabaldon – (619) 920-1282 or Kay McCauley – (619) 997-7212

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

If you need a trailer, we will try to contact volunteers with trailers. Please tell us the type and number of animals. Tell us if they load easily. Put halter on please.

Put your phone number on halter or spray paint it on animal's neck or side. Or write on Duct tape with Sharpie and braid into mane. Halter animal prior to pick up.

We can place stallions at some ranches; this may require owner/designee on site.

If you can, please bring feed supplies; we will do our best to provide hay.

Some locations may require a person remain full time with the animals. Others provide some care of animals without your presence. Tell us your needs.
